Presidents Message

Boating on the Chesapeake Bay is special, and much of what makes it possible happens behind the scenes—at the marinas, boatyards, dealerships, service shops and other marine businesses that keep our boats running and our waterways accessible.

That's what this Guide is about. Throughout these pages, you'll find a directory of members of the Marine Trades Association of Maryland serving boaters across the state. Whether you need a marina, repairs, equipment, insurance, financing or other professional services, we hope you'll use this Guide as a resource throughout the year.

MTAM also works on behalf of these businesses—and Maryland boaters—through advocacy in Annapolis, workforce development and programs that strengthen our industry. We are helping train the next generation of marine professionals while working to ensure Maryland's recreational boating industry can thrive.

Most importantly, we encourage you to support the marine businesses that support boating in Maryland. They are local employers and skilled professionals whose work keeps people on the water.

On behalf of MTAM and our Board of Directors, thank you for boating in Maryland and supporting the businesses that make our Chesapeake boating community possible.

See you on the water.

MTAM Advocacy

MTAM is the voice of recreational boating in Maryland. Together with our lobbying firm, Venable LLP, we monitor pending legislation and work to educate our Delegates, Senators and Maryland State Department heads about the importance of the boating industry and about issues that support or may negatively impact a healthy business environment for our industry.

Some of Our Successes Include:

- Capping the excise tax on boats to remain competitive with our surrounding states and to allow us to capture the work and refits on larger boats.
- Moving .5% of the motor fuel tax, after required distributions, to the Waterway Improvement Fund.
- Altering the Bay Pilot requirements for larger vessels to over 200 feet in length with a draft of 12 feet or more. Making the Bay more accessible for superyachts to visit.
- Consistently working to defeat luxury taxes, taxes on services, and lemon law bills for boats.
- Working with the Department of the Environment to develop the General Discharge Permit for Marinas that is both friendly to the environment and to marine businesses. This called for a phased in approach to capturing and recycling discharge waters at marinas.
- Working with the Department of Natural Resources to implement the Maryland Clean Marina Program.
- Adding marine equipment to exemptions for noise regulations so that marine travelifts and forklifts could operate during business hours.
- Changing the law that prohibited 8'6" trailers on Maryland roads
- Working on changes to Critical Area legislation to minimize impact on marinas while still achieving the intended benefits to our waterways.
- Successfully passed a bill that enable counties and municipalities to grant tax credits to working waterfronts. Redefined working waterfronts to include marinas and boatyards for the recreational boater.

BUILDING A WORKFORCE

For the Recreational Boating Industry

In 2014 MTAM began developing a workforce development program in partnership with the Maryland Department of Labor. Our program encourages young adults to consider the marine trades as a career option by placing them in six-week, on-the-job training internships with partner companies across the state.

Our program also offers up-skill training for current employees. Focused on upward mobility for existing workers, the aim is to open entry-level positions and to continue to fill the pipeline for a sustainable workforce. More than 200 Marylanders have completed the program and 90% have been offered full-time employment after their internship.
